Dear John:

I can add little to what General Hodges states in the attached letter. Obviously, the members of the class from the Air War College were deeply appreciative of the time and effort you put into your briefing on 27 October. Ralph tells me he overheard a number of highly complimentary remarks regarding your presentation on the Near East. I would only add that your willingness to participate in such programs makes my own job and that of the Coordinator for Academic Affairs more effective, easier and far more pleasurable. Many thanks.

Dear [REDACTED]

The Air War College sponsors several different field trips each year to provide students a firsthand view of the subject areas studied. In the past, one of our most popular trips has been the Washington DC trip managed by our National Security Affairs Department. One of the highlights of the trip is a visit to the Central Intelligence Agency, providing us a close-up view of the CIA's role in the national security policy process. Once again we ask your assistance in making that visit most beneficial.

The Washington field trip is scheduled for 24 through 27 October 1983. We would like to visit the CIA on the morning of 27 October. [REDACTED] the CIA representative to the Air University, has been of great assistance in preparing for this visit. He has been in contact with [REDACTED] the Coordinator of Academic Relations to discuss speakers appropriate to the interests of the AWC Class. The cooperative efforts of your action officer and [REDACTED] should insure that their visit is highly productive.

STAT

The Air War College group making the visit will consist of approximately 30 students and 5 members of the college administration. All are US citizens and possess Top Secret clearances. The senior member of the group will be Ambassador Maurice D. Bean, the State Department Advisor to the Air University Commander. The remainder of the group will consist of colonels, lieutenant colonels and civilian equivalents.

Lieutenant Colonel George Allen, the faculty trip manager, is available to coordinate plans as required. He may be reached at (205) 293-2130 or 293-2103.

In the past, the Washington field trip has been a valuable element in the Air War College curriculum. I am certain the trip this October will enrich our students. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely
